1.3. University anti-poverty programmes

SDG 1 – Indicator 1.3.5. Low or lower-middle income countries student support

Schemes to support poor students from low or lower-middle income countries (e.g. offering free education, grants). These include government funded programs such as tuition waivers and grants, financial aid in collaboration with international institutions, retail bodies and more. The Indonesian learners who receive these programmes are from lower socio-economic backgrounds, implementing part of Universitas Sriwijaya commitment on social inclusion and sustainable development to higher education access.

Along with the institutional scholarship, Universitas Sriwijaya is also qualified to receive a program from the government that is a very helpful college for those who are deservebal. These programs besides these financial aids, encourage and promote the major growth of capacity and quality higher education. Through these opportunities, Universitas Sriwijaya provides students who come from underprivileged backgrounds with the means to advance their education and support progress for the world. there are scholarships in collaboration with other parties, namely:

1. Bakti BCA scholarship
2. Djarum Plus scholarship
3. Supersemar scholarship
4. Marubeni scholarship

Apart from providing scholarships, Sriwijaya University also supports anti-poverty programs by offering incentives to outstanding students. This initiative aims to give underprivileged students the opportunity to excel without having to worry about financial constraints.
