Universitas Sriwijaya is integrating peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development into campus policies and practices in order to create a more just and equitable society both within the campus community and beyond. As described in the SDGs 8 that, there is a growing trend towards achieving equity in gender, particularly in regards to academic programs and hiring practices. The university has taken steps to actively recruit female students and staff members, in order to promote diversity and ensure equal opportunities for all individuals. In addition, to support the implementation of these laws and regulations, the university has assigned an Information and Documentation Management Officer (PPID).
