The Learning Development and Quality Assurance Institute (LP3MP) at Universitas Sriwijaya will begin conducting a survey on Sustainability Development Goals (SDGs) literacy among all Sriwijaya University students at the end of 2024. Moving forward, this survey will be conducted each semester to assess and evaluate students' understanding of and commitment to key sustainability concepts. The survey results will be processed and analyzed to determine the level of students' comprehension of the SDGs concepts. The university will organize socialization sessions and workshops for students who have not yet fully understood the SDGs concepts. Students are expected to actively participate as agents of change capable of contributing to the achievement of SDGs across various sectors.
